Her Engagement to War Veteran is Announced by Aunt in Philadelphia.

Miss Julia Berwind of 102 South Twenty-first street, Philadelphia, has announced the engagement of her niece, Miss Margaret E. Dunlap, to Lieut.-Col. Sotheus Behn of Havana, Cuba. The engagement will be of interest not only in New York, where Miss Dunlap has relatives, but also in Newport, where for several summers she has been with her aunt, Miss Berwind. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Dunlap of Philadelphia, and since the death of her parents she has been at home with Miss Berwind. She also is a niece of Messrs. Edward J. and John E. Berwind of this city.

CHALDEAN ART SHOW FOR FIRST TIME HERE

Old and Modern Works Displayed at Benefit Tea.

A new idea in socio-gastronomy was added to the attractions of modern society yesterday in a Chaldean Tea in the Plaza. A large group of women who had arranged the matinee party provided a diversion that was not only new in name and in setting but in the character of the refreshments served. Chaldean tea was served for the benefit of needy children of China, Mesopotamia. There also was an exhibition of interesting works of art both old and modern from that centre of ancient civilization, which was a novelty in itself, being the first exhibit of the kind in this city.

The tea was carried on into last evening with some elaborations and was repeated this afternoon at six o'clock. The directing committee includes Messrs. Henry W. Taft, Nicholas F. Brady, Drexel Dahlgren, Robert W. de Forest, Crimmins Johnson, Schuyler N. Francis, Harold Henderson, John Giraud Agar, Michael Gavin, Robert F. Wilberforce and Edward R. Hewitt; Misses Josephine Manning, Annalita Stagg, Charlotte Van Cortlandt and Dorothea Carroll.

HONORS MISS B. D'A. GREENE.

Miss Belle d'Acosta Greene, bibliophile, has long been in charge of the J. Pierpont Morgan library, which is decorated by the French Government with the highest grade of the Ordre de l'Instruction Publique, Palmes d'Or. The decoration was conferred on her by Rene Viviani, Envoy Extraordinary to the United States, before he left the country, and was given in recognition of her services in the spread of French culture throughout the world. She is a high authority on rare and old books and manuscripts. J. P. Morgan and Dr. Marcel Knecht were present when Miss Greene received the decoration.

MRS. HOYT IN PICTURES AIMS TO REACH LEGITIMATE STAGE

Says Life Ambition Is to Act, as Idleness Causes Unhappiness.

Mrs. Lydig Hoyt yesterday reported at the studio where she is to make her first bid for fame on the motion picture screen. Serious work on the picture in which this beauty of society will be introduced to picture patrons was begun Monday. Yesterday she just looked around and got the feel of the studio. Then she went back to her country home at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., where she told briefly of her ambition, which is to succeed in pictures and through them to reach her goal, which is the legitimate stage.

"All my life," Mrs. Hoyt said, "I have wanted to go on the stage, and I consider the spoken stage a bigger art than the movies, but I have decided to begin in the movies because the work hours are in the day time instead of at night, and I would rather work in the day time."

"I could have starred for myself, but I did not think it would be fair to myself. They think I will screen well, and I think I can act, and that's all I can say about it. It may be a failure."

"Women should do something that is real, I believe," she continued. "I am tired of being apologized for and having it said that I am only an amateur. I want to get into the professional world where there is competition. I think idleness is the cause of half the unhappiness in the world."

"The first item, the set of La Libre Belgique, was purchased by Gabriel Wills for $60, and the second, the official agenda of the peace conference, was acquired by the same buyer for $75, making a total for the two of $135. La Libre Belgique was the clandestine sheet published under most astonishing circumstances in Belgium under the very eyes of the Germans from 1915 to 1919. The set contains 121 numbers, the twenty supplements, and is one of the only four complete and authenticated files known."

Yesterday afternoon's session at the American Art Galleries in the sale of English and American antiques, including the Baxter collection of Thackeray letters and the private libraries of Mr. Trowbridge Hall and Miss Eleanor Fitzgibbon, reached a total of $15,828.

An elaborately illustrated work on miniature painting, extended from one to fourteen volumes, small folio, J. L. Propper's "A History of Miniature Art," was sold for $1,174. The insets, fetched the highest price of the day, $1,450, from Gabriel Wills.

The evening's session of the same sale totaled $9,740.50, making the grand total for the entire sale $58,046.50. At the evening's session the Thackeray letters were the chief feature, and of these W. M. Hill acquired the larger number. The Baxter collection of Thackeray letters, a notable group, sold for a total of $4,792.50, and most of the items passed into the possession of W. M. Hill.

FUR SHOWMANKINS WEAR NOTHING ELSE

Prehistoric Hip Length Sack Makes Revelations Recalling Forest Life.

Summer furs have come to stay, apparently the spring fashion show of peltry is the next innovation, the first being staged last night at the Commodore Hotel. Hundreds of thousands of costly wraps and less costly coats were on display and some of them, exhibited by pretty manikins, enchanted two thousand men and women who are interested in learning in advance what the fashions in this branch of the modern costume are to be next autumn.

Briefly, the striking points of the display presented by the fur division of the National Garment Retailers' Association, are that wraps will be short, or shorter, they will be made of combinations of fur, particularly black and white; the sleeve will be returned to favor, collars will be higher and fuller and a new belt occasionally will give variety to the department of dress.

Furriers have no hesitancy in combining pony and monkey skin, in introducing red cat—the old, old tortoise shell—and a few more, or in suggesting a "pelt pettiskirt" for this same occasion.

The first manikins to appear on the enormous stage across one end of the Commodore Hotel were the models of the style of garment was prehistoric, with bare legs showing from below the hip length sack. Then came fur trapper and Martin Brestel as the trapper soloist, and afterward a procession of pretty girls and equally attractive furs.

One set of manikins wore black and white furs and the sheers of black and white stockings and diamond studded anklets.

Royal ermine skins seven together like a huge spider web interested the crowd who showed their appreciation by rounds of applause. The lining of this evening cape was also spider webbed.

Gray is going to be fashionable next season. One girl in this becoming costume wore a fur hat, a fur coat and
